Teenage Pregnancy and Adoption

Gr. 7-12 This ABC News program sheds light on the most heartbreaking dilemma a teen mother can face. Viewers enter the lives of Erin and Brookanne, who — because of college plans and financial hardships — have decided against motherhood and now reside at the Gladney Center for Adoption, a unique facility for pregnant teens in Fort Worth, Texas. OB-GYN appointments, counseling sessions, and meetings with hopeful adoptive parents reveal the medical, emotional, and economic realities the girls must confront as the impending births approach. The program culminates with the arrival of babies and, within days, the moment of greatest sadness and joy. 38 minutes. ©2007. Sh. wt. 0.25 lbs.

How Boys & Girls Differ: The First Six Years

Gr. 7+ What is the real difference between how boys and girls develop? Recognizing these differences is essential to understanding child development. For example, girls have more acute hearing than boys and begin talking a bit sooner, but boys show superior spatial intelligence even in the first year. Girls start life growing physically faster and at a more steady rate. Girls develop social skills sooner than boys and are more interested in people and feelings even in the first year of growth. This program explores what these gender differences mean for parents and caregivers, how they contribute to stereotypes, and how caregivers can nourish the whole child. 20 minutes. ©2002.
